

Planning Applications now available on-line

Keeping track of planning applications has now been made much easier, thanks to a new on-line system introduced by Milton Keynes Council's planning department.

Called Public Access for planning, the system allows the viewing of applications via the internet. All new planning applications made after November 11 will be available, including all application forms, plans, consultation responses and public representations.

The Planning Department encourages people to use the system and to make comments on planning matters via a 'Submit Comments button.'

Public Access can be found via the Planning Department's webpage, or by going to: www.milton-keynes.gov.uk/publicaccess.
